THE KENTUCKY CARDINAL of which The Thoroughbred is the last number, is published monthly by the students of the University of Louisville, the Cardinal Board of Control consisting of Norris Boyd, Virginia Jarvis, George Patterson, Ralph Schwaninger, Millard Waggoner, Robert Thornbury, W. H. Simon, and K. A. Fischer, acting as the publishing body. The editorial rooms are at 119 West Broadway, Louisville, Kentucky.

"Entered as second class matter January 18, 1922, at the post office at Louisville, Kentucky, under the act of March 3, 1879."

"Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 27, 1922."

The 1925 Thoroughbred

Dedication

PROGRESS has brought in its train the realization of our fondest hopes—the acquisition of a permanent home for the University of Louisville.

As we near the home stretch and see the goal within our reach, we realize that had it not been for those far-seeing men who looked into the future when the University was yet young, and by their foresight made possible this realization, our race like many a good one would have been lost ere it had begun—our favorite would have been left at the post while other contestants passed by us.

To the New University then, and to those men who made our dreams of a new campus come true, we dedicate this annual, OUR THOROUGHBRED.

Louisville's young men who have desired thorough training in the Engineering Sciences have had to go away from home to get it, or have gone without. Much has been lost to the industrial progress of the city through the lack of opportunity for such training. The University has been put in position to supply this training by a generous gift during the past year.

The Speed Scientific School will be opened September, 1925. The school has been established on the James Breckenridge Speed Foundation, created by Mr. William S. Speed and Mrs. Frederic M. Sackett, as a memorial to their father, James Breckenridge Speed. It will be a separate school of the University and will train in the engineering sciences by a co-operative course extending over four full years—twelve months to the year, with time for a brief vacation.

The plan for instruction was adopted after a thorough study of the best engineering schools in the United States representing the different types of engineering education. The school will offer Louisville boys a thorough training in the fundamental sciences and in the practice of civil, mechanical, electrical and chemical engineering. The school will occupy two, perhaps three, buildings on the new campus.

Historical Society

The Historical Society of the University of Louisville is probably the most popular organization in the University of Louisville. It is popular because it is free from stiff formalism, and combines in a delightfully charming way a social hour with an educational feature that does not bore.

The society meets once a month in the Art Room of the College of Liberal Arts. Although the name of the organization may not conjure up an attractive picture in the mind of the student the meetings of the Historical Society are emphatically lacking in class-room atmosphere. The programs are interesting, entertaining, humorous, and if one does not find that the programs answer to those adjectives one always has recourse to the refreshments which conclude every meeting.

During the past year the society had seven excellent programs and made a trip to the Devil's Back Bone. Dr. William Edgerton, Mr. Temple Bodley, who is an authority on George Rogers Clark; Prof. J. T. English, S. G. Boyd, Miss Mary Verhoeff were speakers. One program consisted of One program consisted of a round table discussion in which Miss Artus James, Miss Minnie Landau, C. P. Sutt, and Dr. Louis Gottschalk led the discussion. The final meeting of the year witnessed three highly entertaining charades.

The officers for the past year and the newly elected officers are:

Journalism Club

Although the Journalism Club of the University of Louisville has a number of reasons for existing and is beneficial to the University and to its members in many respects, the all-consuming ambition of the organization is to be instrumental in giving this institution a Chair of Journalism.

To that lofty end we have labored for three years now and not without success. We hope that with the removal to the new campus that the consummation of our purpose may be facilitated. It is not improbable that courses in journalism will be offered next year.

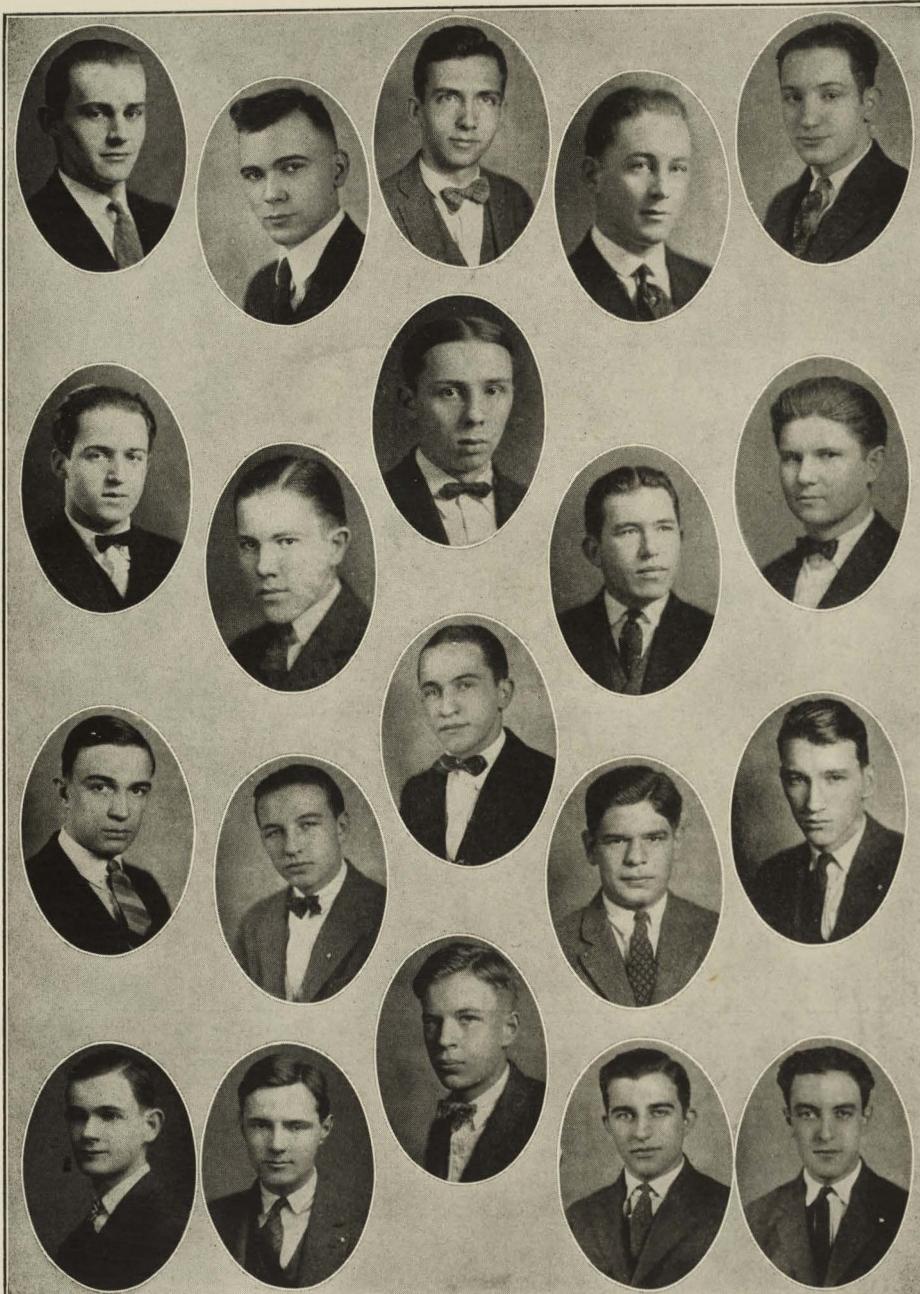

While efforts have been made to obtain for the University a Chair of Journalism, the Journalism Club has also been doing things for its members, who have found through the medium of interesting programs and visits to newspaper plants that the field of journalism is as fascinating as it has often been painted.

The Journalism Club was founded three years ago by Bent Taylor, Samuel Hyman, and Mary Elizabeth Theobold. Samuel Hyman has served as president for the past two years, an office to which he was elected unanimously on the occasion of each election. The officers for the past year and the club roll follow:

The Dramatic Club

At last! The dream of many years has been realized! The Players of the University of Louisville are going to have a real playhouse-a thing for which they have striven for years, in fact, ever since their organization eleven years ago.

In September, 1925, the University of Louisville Players expect to open their twelfth season in the Playhouse which is now being built by remodeling the old chapel on the University Campus, Third and Shipp Streets.

This Playhouse will not only be a Playhouse-it will be a true theater in every sense of the word. The stage between the proscenium arch will be twenty eight feet. The distance from the dressing room (yes, there will be dressing rooms) wall to dressing room wall will be fifty six feet. The stage is twenty seven feet deep, and there is a distance of thirty two feet from the stage door to the grid iron floor above. There will be eight dressing rooms, four on either side of the stage. There will be box office and toilet facilities for the comfort of the guest. The auditorium will have a seating capacity of 500 and instead of the pews that are now in the workshop, there will be individual orchestra chairs. In fact, the Playhouse will be adequately equipped to house any play that the University Players may select to "put on."

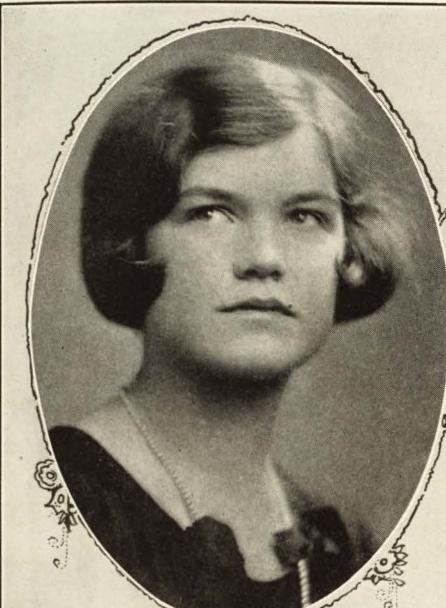

Everyone will then be afforded an opportunity to see some of the great plays which could never have been given here-to-fore. Mr. Martin has promised many remarkable plays-great gala events in which many people will be given a chance to display their talents. It is even whispered that "Within the Law" may be given. Old plays will be revived, and, according to Mr. Martin's custom, new ones will be introduced. Everyone will be forced to sit up and take notice-in fact, each and everyone of the University Players knows that the Playhouse will be the thing in Louisville for many years hence. Louisville, and any of the rest of the world who may come to visit, will marvel at its great forward stride in the development of the Little Theater.

It will be with no little regret however that the players leave their old workshop, for the many fond memories attached to it cannot be forgotten in a short time.

The 1925 Thoroughbred

Class History 1925

Almost before reality presses for attention, we are made aware of the fact that our college days have just drawn to a close. Too late we seem to appreciate that some of the happiest of all days have passed into history; yet these days lacked nothing in the "strenuous life."

The earliest training will be remembered by Professor Jackson's favorite declaration, "I'm here for to call the roll," and explanation of "Pediatrics: diseases of the feet." Even after the essential drudgery of the past four years, "breathes there a man with soul so dead" or so imprisoned in the throes of an exacerbation of neurasthenia that he is totally devoid of the combustive energy sufficient to extemporize at least a risus sardonicus upon recollecting the "mustard oil" of Esther, the "contact" of Bell, "hypertrophied reflexes," Burton's overcoat, The "C. P. D." of Sloane, the "political career" of Weaver, the ceiling blistering in the amphitheatre by the head-mirrors of Hall and Morris, the "Admiral's" umbrella, the "iodide of potash" panacea, the "prognosis" of T. C. Hill, and Moran's football field activities.

Nor, indeed, can we fail in response to Doctor Hendon's announcement, "Gentlemen, we'll continue the slumber party next Wednesday," and his fascinating description of what happens subsequent to impediment to the normal migrations of the Colon Bacillus; the story of the Paris mail-carrier by Doctor Hanes; the pinnacle position of "flatulent dyspepsia" in nutrition; and the "most impo'tant" features of John Walker Moore. With just pride do we recollect the intensiveness and interest of Doctor Wathen's lectures, as likewise the instructiveness and popularity of Doctor Abell's lectures and clinics.

We are elated in the knowledge that our University is a growing institution. Attention is invited to some of the recent developments:

STUDENT BODY. A fundamental change in the requirements for admission and promotion has taken place, emphasis being placed upon the character, personality and general capacity of the student. Classes are limited. There has been a constantly increasing excess of applications. All classes are full and many applicants for all four classes have been turned away. Thirteen advanced standing transfers from different States were inducted in 1923.

ADMISSIONS. While the scholastic requirements of the Association of American Medical Colleges have remained the minimum requirements, preference has been given those students with greater preparation. Now the average credentials offered approximate ninety semester hours.

The 1925 Thoroughbred

PROMOTIONS. Marking by grades has been abolished. Each student's final examination grade is fixed by the Committee on Promotions, consideration being given to the student's conduct, application and practical work, as well as his examination paper. Grades are now given out in terms of P.H., P.C., and P., with E. for conditions and F. for failure.

DEANSHIP. Dr. Stuart Graves became acting dean in 1922 as successor to Dr. Henry Enos Tuley. Effective July 1, 1923, Doctor Graves was elected dean.

IDEALS. The keynote under the policy of the present deanship is service to the public. Selections for class membership and post graduate appointments are based, as nearly as possible, upon the character, integrity and worthiness of the applicants, along with a creditable scholastic record.

FACULTY. We hold in grateful remembrance those members of the faculty who have passed on: Drs. Louis S. McMurtry, Henry Enos Tuley, C. W. Kelly, Sidney Meyers, Isaac A. Lederman, I. N. Bloom, H. E. Bronner, C. W. Brookover, Henry B. Ritter and T. F. Hale.

With the new deanship, committees were appointed for admissions and promotions which have entire jurisdiction over student ratings. The whole faculty has been reorganized into an academic faculty and clinical faculty. Paid instructors have been provided in medicine, surgery, obstetrics and X-ray, with plans being worked out for supplementing the present staff of the pediatrics department with a complete academic staff and the establishment of a pediatrics research laboratory. The Departments of Anatomy, Physiology and Pharmacology have been entirely reorganized with men nationally recognized for their scientific standing and research accomplishments.

HOSPITAL. The University has become responsible for the entire professional conduct of the City Hospital. Appointments are made on a twelve months basis, thus, making possible for the first time, a reliable schedule for hospital work. The University has secured support from private endowments and the Community Chest for the Social Service Department. The record system of the hospital has been completely altered, and a record clerk, formerly employed by the school, has been taken over by the city. The resident staff of the hospital has been entirely reorganized and increased; a graded service has been established, providing for rotating and straight services in medicine, surgery and pathology, leading to residencies in medicine after two years' experience and in surgery after three years' experience.

ENDOWMENT. Announcement has been made of an endowment fund association composed of the leading business and professional men in Louis-

The 1925 Thoroughbred

History of Class of 1925

On a September morning in the year of 1921, forty-eight alert, ambitious young men, enrolled as freshmen in the College of Dentistry of the University of Louisville, and gathered at the College of Medicine "fer Anatomy."

From every station and condition of life, from every part of the country they came, eager to begin the life work which they had selected, determined to acquire the knowledge necessary for success in the honored profession which they had chosen. Many and varied were the experiences which came to these would-be Doctors of Dental Surgery during the trying year which followed this first lecture. Coming into a strange, entirely new environment, they quickly adjusted themselves to their changed atmosphere, gradually throwing off the inexperience of the laymen, unlearned in the mysteries and practices of the profession, and assuming something of the dignity of professional men, as they caught the spirit and sensed in a measure the traditions of the time-honored institution within whose walls they labored. In spite of a few deeply regretted deaths and transfers to other colleges, from among the original number, there were still forty names on the roll call as this first eventful year came to a close.

With renewed strength and eagerness, this little band assembled for another year only to find new faces as well as to note the absence of many old familiar ones. Many were the gallons of mid-night oil burned and many were the hours spent in ceaseless, seemingly endless periods of study by the earnest, toiling embryo members of the Dental Profession. This was the trial year, the year in which the purpose and determination of these men to stand by their choice of a life work was tested most often and with the greatest severity. With a very few exceptions they emerged from the battle with flying colors, their enthusiasm undiminished, their high resolve to obtain the D. D. S. degree or die in the attempt strengthened rather than impaired. And so at last the sophomore year slipped away into history, its memory cherished, its trials and experiences never to be forgotten.

Then came September, 1923, the Junior year—and the clinic. The longed for time had come. The period to which every student of dentistry looks forward to, the time when all feel that finally they are beginning to catch a glimpse of the light at the end of the long dark passage, had arrived at last. Now that the period of greatest stress was over, knowledge seemed to come easier, work was more enjoyable, and there were more frequent breathing spells between periods of intensive study. Men of professional speech and bearing these students were becoming to be, to whom the College of Dentistry could point with pride in the future as graduates who were upholding the reputation and traditions of their Alma Mater. The knowledge of practical work well done, in the clinic and in the class room, spurred the members of the class to greater achievement and brought to a promising close a fruitful Junior year.

So we come at last to the final chapter in the eventful and crowded history of the class of 1925. With success almost in sight, with the dreams of years about to be realized, the members of the class embarked upon their Senior year full of hope and expectation of what lay before them. Down the home stretch they came, their faces set toward the goal for which they had been working. The months rolled by and at last commencement, which in reality is only the beginning, as the word signifies, came upon them. With pride in their bearing, and joy in their hearts, just a little awed by the thought that they are leaving their student days behind them forever, they stand before the world armed with knowledge and secure in the belief that they have only to remain true to their ideals and to practice conscientiously the duties and tasks of their profession to achieve the real and lasting success which a waiting world, ever needful of their services, holds out to them. Thus our narrative is ended. Many important events and happenings of the four years we have failed necessarily, because of the brevity of this chronicle, to relate here. To the members of this graduating class, to whom they are of the greatest interest, they will always remain as cherished memories. The class of 1925 now passes into history, and in its passing bids a final farewell to the College of Dentistry and to the other departments of the University, to whom it wishes many years of ever increasing prosperity in the future.

Its last season has indeed been a gala one. Five plays were given and each of these plays was decidedly different in character. The plays, in the order in which they were given were: The Dover Road, Grumpy, A Successful Calamity, The Bonds of Interest and Seventeen.

The Dover Road, by A. A. Miln was presented October 17 and 18. Dorothy Moreman and George Patterson, two of the best known of the Players had the two leads. It is certainly most needless to say that the play was quite a success. The success of the entire season was perhaps due to the fact that such an excellent play was chosen as the opening one.

Grumpy, the next play, was another new production to the theater-goers of Louisville. Hugh Sutton probably did one of the finest pieces of acting he had ever done in the title role while Margaret Chambers and George Caspari, as the two younger leads, gained many worthy comments on their performances.

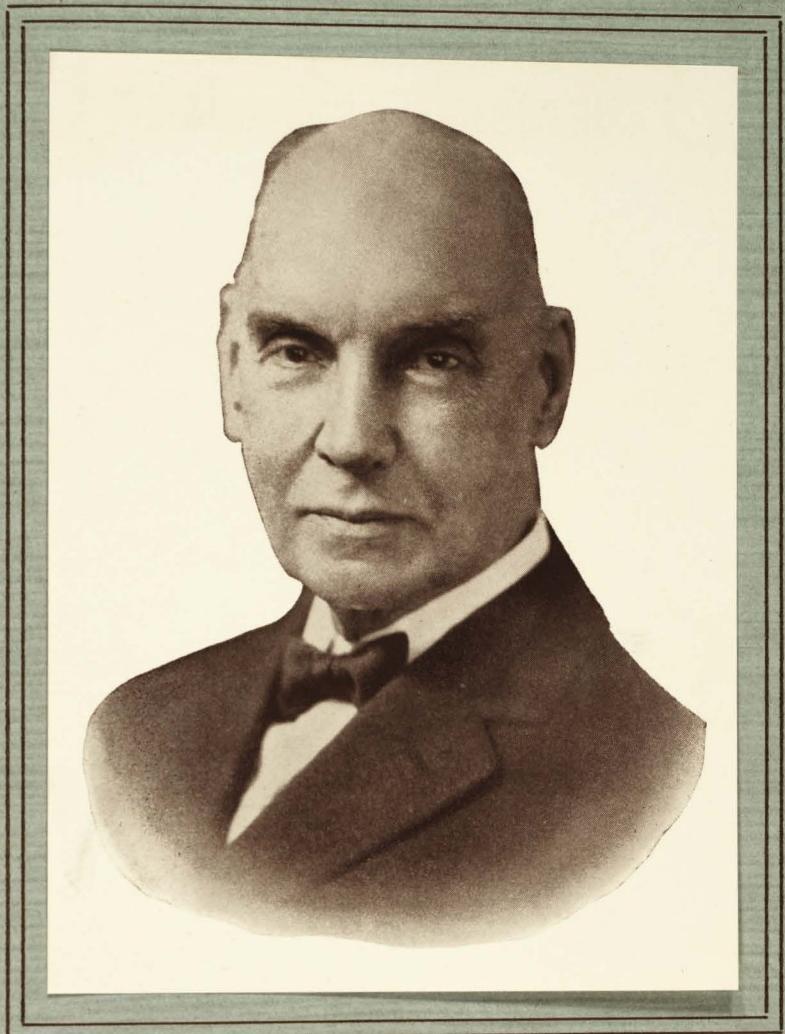

A Successful Calamity, with Virginia Jarvis and George Patterson in the leading roles added another feature to the Player's already heavy laden cap.

Then came the triumph of the year-perhaps of all the years-Jacinto Benaventi's The Bonds of Interest, with Dorothy Moreman, George Patterson, Virginia Watts and Hugh Sutton prominently cast. This play was a most difficult undertaking. No other amateur organization could ever dare to have tackled it. Mr. Martin saw in it a "sure-fire" success and the players went right into it-and needless to say, they made a "go" of it.

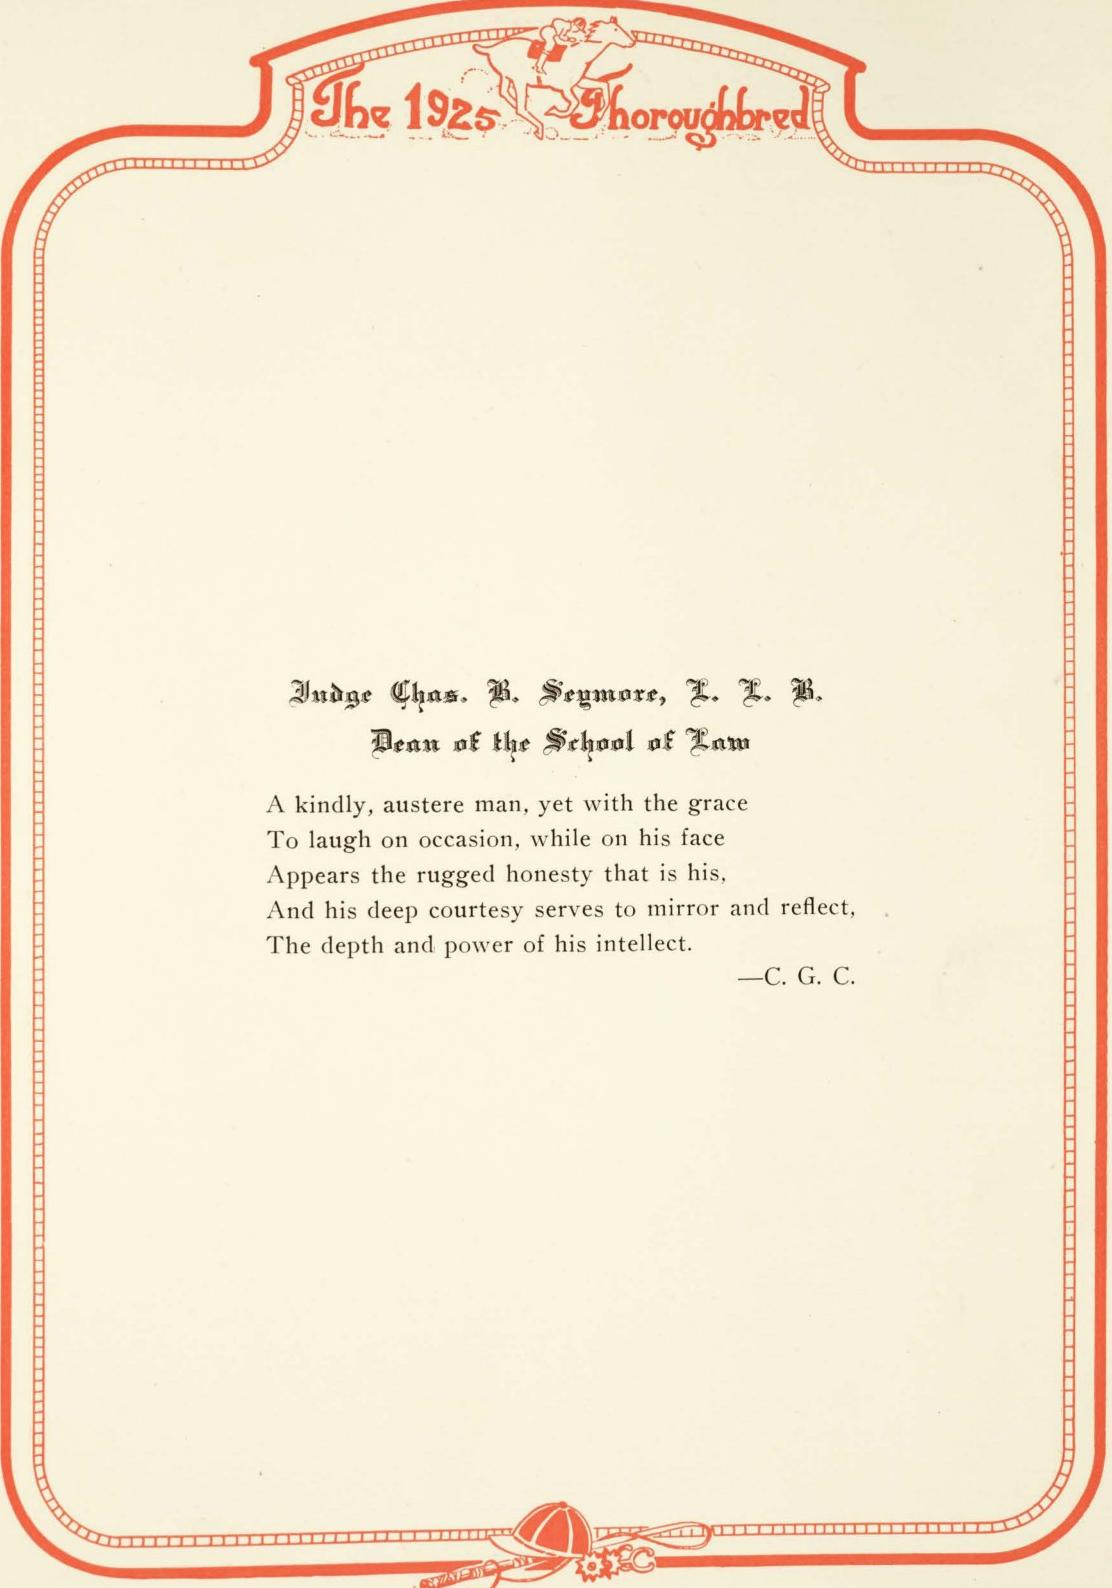

Incidentally, The Bonds of Interest was the last play the University of Louisville Players will ever present at Macauley's Theater.

Booth Tarkington's Seventeen with Ewing Beynroth as Willie Baxter, and Marguerite Schwaninger as Miss Lola Pratt was the swansong of both the eleventh season and the old Workshop.

Everybody present at the last performance of Seventeen felt two conflicting emotions, as the curtain closed on the old stage for the last time-a tinge of sorrow perhaps, at the thought of leaving a place held dear in their hearts for eleven years, and a little greater tinge of joy probably at the thought of the brilliant future ahead of them in their new field-the Playhouse on the New University of Louisville Campus.

History of the Class of 1925

On the first Monday in October, 1922, the 1925 class of the Law School met for its first classes on the second floor of the Administration Building, on Chestnut Street, at which place the Law Department was then located.

Twenty-one young men and one young lady composed the class, which, as many classes before it had done, spent the greater part of the first semester trying to find out what it was all about. By the beginning of the second semester, however, most of us had grasped a sufficient understanding of legal terms to enable us to progress with less difficulty and, guided by the careful teaching of our instructors, we feel the class as a whole made a creditable showing.

When the law school opened its doors in 1923, we were gratified to find that we had been provided with a building of our own on Center Street, which was a very desirable location on account of its proximity to the various courts. The library of the school had been increased and new furniture and fixtures installed and it appeared that the Law Department had entered upon a new era of progress.

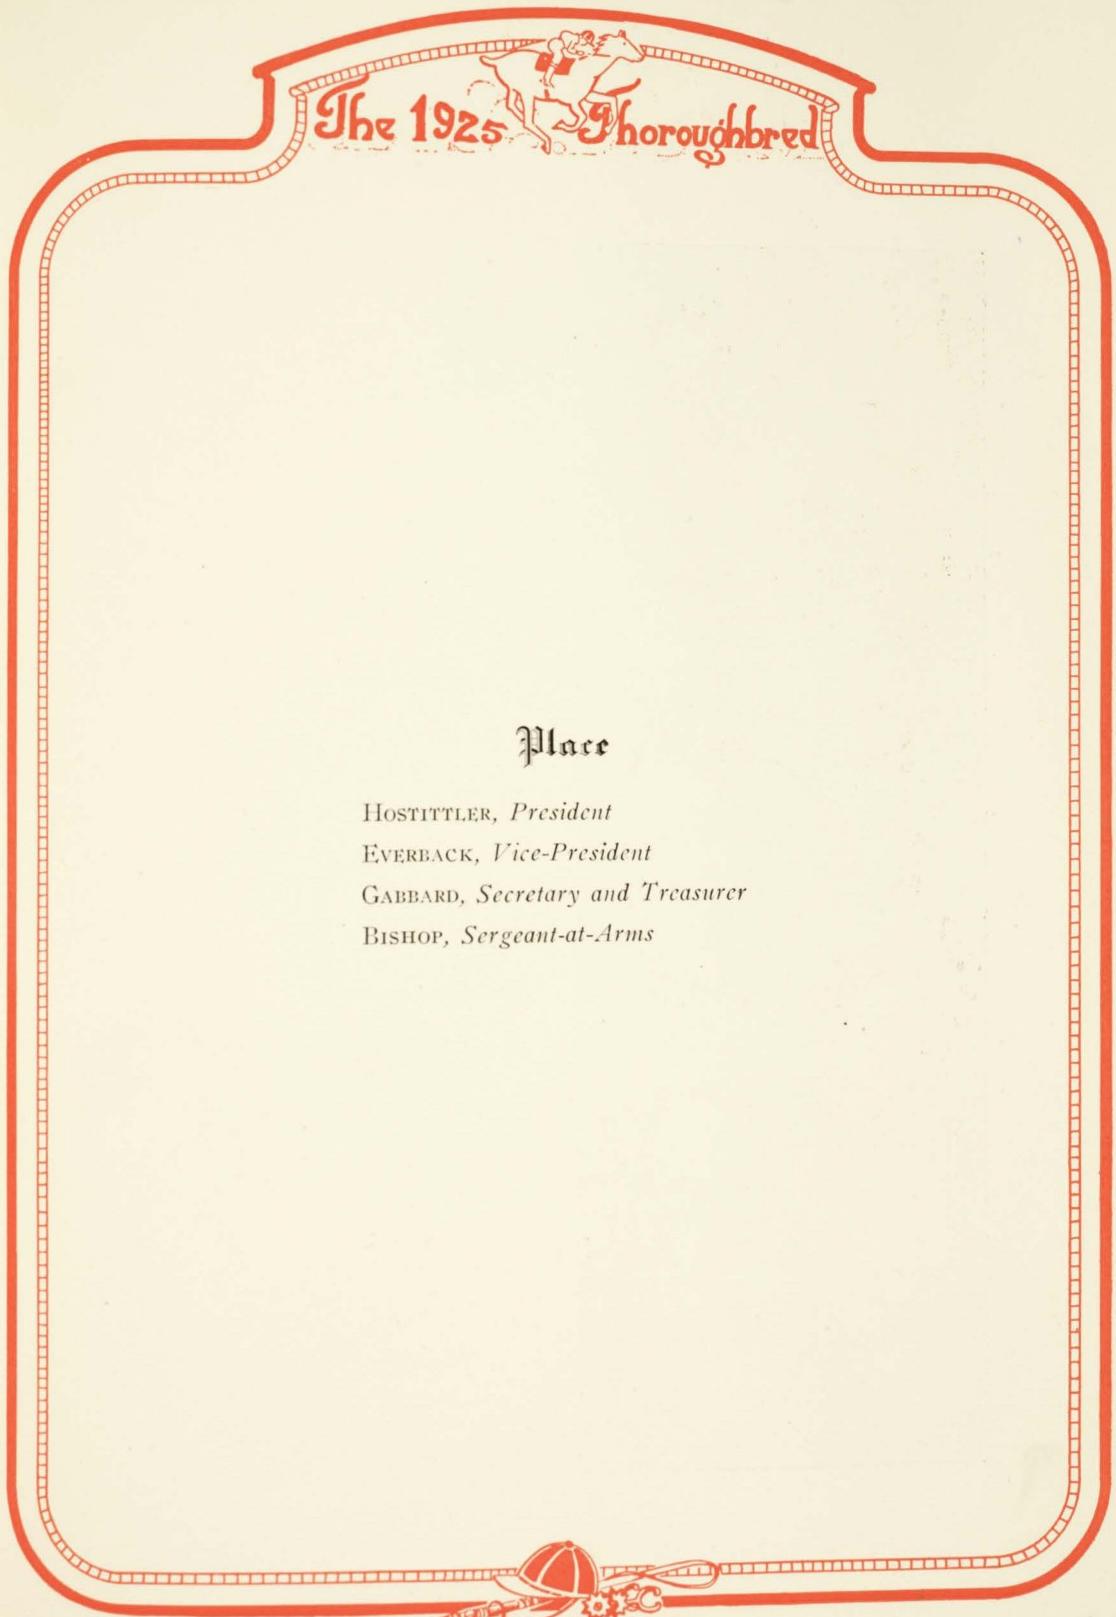

As no class is subject to the demands of a University curriculum without suffering casualties, we proved no exception, and the beginning of our second year saw our ranks thinned by the loss of Defevers, Edwards, Turner and Miss Cohen, the latter going to Ohio State University to complete her legal education. Having grasped the rudiments of the law, we found our second year more interesting. It was our good fortune and the misfortune of succeeding classes, to be the last class to have a full year's instruction in the subjects of Equity and Real Property under Dean Seymour. Our association with the Dean we regard as an outstanding landmark during our stay at the Law School.

In September of 1924, we began our senior year, and found we had lost two of our regular members; Morgan had found the life insurance business so attractive that he had decided to give it his full time, while Rider, having passed the State bar examination the preceding summer, had made a connection with a prominent attorney in Frankfort, Ky., at which place he is now practicing law. However we found ourselves enriched by the addition of Jones and Boggess and so held our own. Our last year has been the most interesting and productive of all and while none of us lay claim to a large amount of legal knowledge, we have reached a point where we realize how much of the law we DON'T know, and have been told this is a favorable perspective for young graduates to take into practice with them.

While the class of 1925 does not wish to claim too much for itself, it was the first class to successfully create and organize a Greek letter legal fraternity, which has become firmly established in the University. We have at all times boosted not only the law department but the whole University and feel, as we graduate and go out as embryo lawyers, that we are better individuals for having attended the Law Department of the University of Louisville and that it is a better Law School and University for our having gone there.

ville, who are engaged in raising a $2,000,000 endowment of which $750,000 will be set aside as the nucleus of a permanent endowment for the School of Medicine. In addition to this, the Carnegie Corporation gave $20,000 in 1924 for temporary help while these endowment plans are being perfected.

UNIVERSITY DEVELOPMENTS. The new campus at Third Street and Eastern Parkway has been acquired at a cost of $245,000.

The Speed Scientific School, established in 1924 by the James Breckinridge Speed Foundation, will open its doors to students of engineering in September, 1925.

The diploma of the School of Medicine is now recognized by the British Conjoint Board and the Federal Board, as well as by every State in the Union.

A full time athletic director became a reality in 1923.

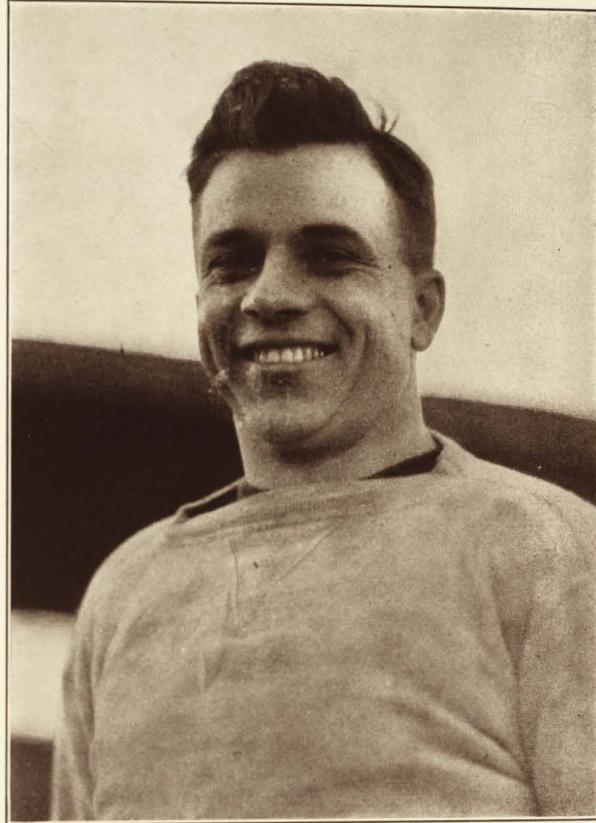

Announcement has been made of the submission of a $1,000,000 bond issue in 1925 for buildings for the College of Liberal Arts on the new campus.

UNIVERSITY ORGANIZATION. A real epoch was marked in the history of the University by the establishment of a full time presidency and a full time chancellorship; also, the appointment of a council which is made up ex-officio of the president, chancellor, deans and selected representatives from each of the schools.

With the abundance of all the above as the scenic back-ground for the stage of our future activities, let us render a performance par excellence to the audience of mankind, keeping always before our vision the superlative character of the training received, the "Oath of Hippocrates," the historic examples of heroic achievement in medical conquest, the nobility of service and the ideals of medicine.

"Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy low-vaulted past!
Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast
Till thou at length art free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea!"

The 1925 Thoroughbred

Football

PAUL OSBORNE, Captain

In general, this has been a successful athletic season for the University of Louisville. The football season was satisfactory, the basketball team achieved great fame, the track team won two state championships, and the baseball team was strong as usual. Coach Fred Enke together with Coach Duncan has done wonders with Cardinal athletics, and next year, with campus life, new spirit and real athletes, the Cardinal and Black banner should wave with many a jaunty flourish.

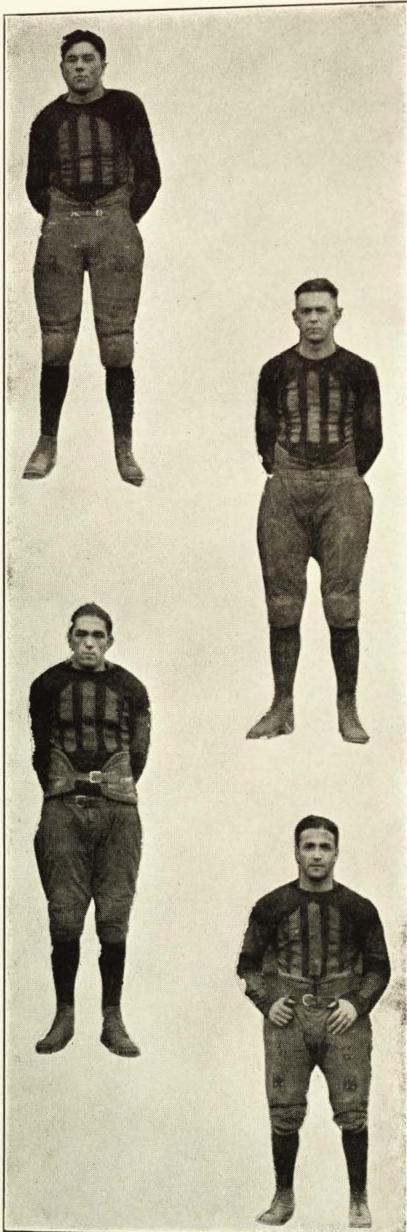

Probably the best way to describe the football season of the University of Louisville this year would be to say it was satisfactory—under the conditions. Captain Osborne set a good example for all to follow and showed his skill as end. Three games were won, five lost and one tied. But the games that were lost were not lost by overwhelming scores, and there was a measure of victory in each of them. The Cardinals started their season with Kentucky, which had one of its best teams, and the Cats won 29 to 0.

Western State Normal was conquered in the next encounter 12 to 0, and Georgetown succumbed to the Cardinals 9 to 8. Then disaster came. With six regulars out of the line-up, the Enke-men were beaten by Rose Poly 18 to 6. Kentucky Wesleyan held the crippled Cardinals to a scoreless tie, and Transylvania, in a bitter struggle, eked out a 3 to 0 victory over Louisville. The nationally known eleven of King College invaded Louisville and won 16 to 0, but Chattanooga witnessed the Cardinals at their best and lost 10 to 0. In the final game the Cardinals scored 16 first downs to Marshall's five and yet lost 16 to 6.

The team was a good one, but misfortune followed in its path. However, an ambitious schedule has been arranged for next year, and with a wealth of material returning, there is every reason to suppose that the Cardinals will have a highly successful season.

The 1925 Thoroughbred

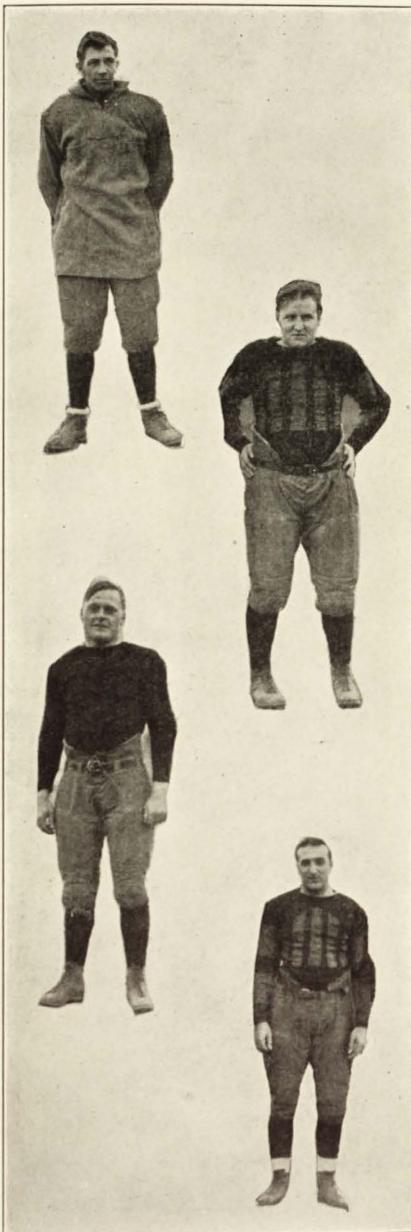

The war-cry of Chief Hocker and the Chief himself are well known. Though regularly an end, Hocker was shifted to the backfield for a time, where his line plunging was of the highest order.

Harry Daugherty is recognized as one of the best tackles in the south. Both on offense and defense he has starred consistently.

There were very few teams that could boast of a backfield man comparable to Jack Daugherty, fullback. His passing, plunging, tackling and receiving of passes was unexcelled by any opponent.

Burrows left his mark in Georgetown. His playing there at end, as in every game that followed, immediately made him the center of attention. Few plays went around his end.

The 1925 Thoroughbred

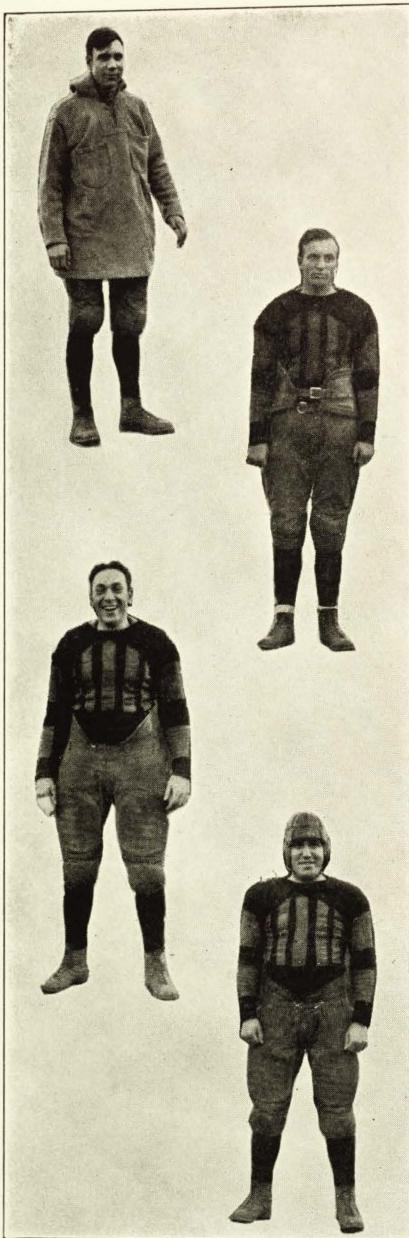

When Paavo Nurmi finally is beaten it will be Squire Kemp that will perform the task. His work on the squad was of inestimable value.

Riddle brought part of the Kentucky mountains to Louisville with him. They helped materially in the line. The plural must be used in speaking of Fats.

Adelberg did not play in enough games to make his letter, but he made his mark on many an opposing lineman.

Whenever a line was pretty tough Marty Corso was the boy to break it. Corso's work at fullback and at half brought many gains to the Cardinal. He has been invaluable for the last two years.

The 1925 Thoroughbred

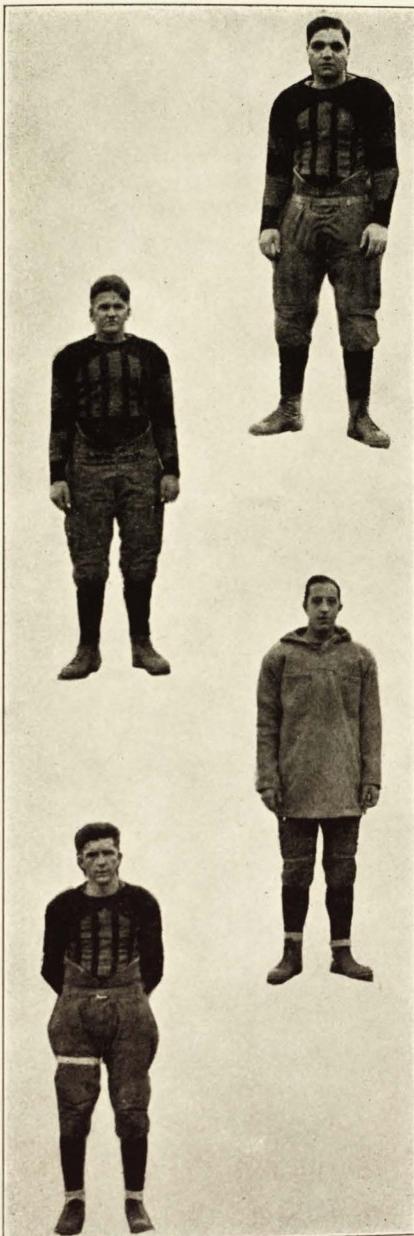

Harry Caudill lent the brawn given him by nature and experience gained at Centre toward making the past season the success it was. Caudill played a stellar game at guard.

Tommy Kienzle has been the guiding light of Louisville's athletics for some time. At quarterback, Kienzle has directed the team for three seasons, and his passing has been unexcelled.

Johnny Gentile, the Cleveland flash and pride of the Medical school, ruined opposing lines at guard. An injured knee prevented his playing in the contest with Rose, but he was a power in all others.

With Gentile, Harry Baden formed a Cleveland combination that brought yards to Louisville. Baden was responsible for more than one spoiled enemy play.

The 1925 Thoroughbred

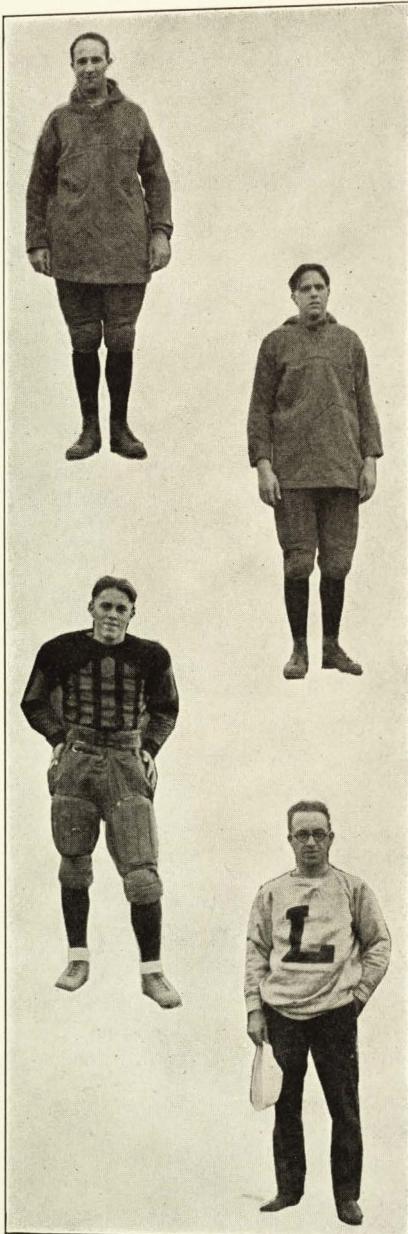

There is more grit and fight packed in the five feet, six inches of Fuzzy Fuizotte than in an equal amount of wildcats. Fuizotte's pluck and ability has earned him praise everywhere the Cardinal and Black was shown this season.

Juers, though not making a letter was one of Coach Enke's most dependable linemen. He was a guard.

Howard Koch also was one of the war horses that make the first team battle. He can be counted upon as a future star.

James Blackerby was accounted too light early in the season for first team material, but this fallacy was soon exposed. His brilliant performance in the last half of the season, both in directing the team from quarter and in carrying the ball, assure him of a regular berth as long as he chooses to play.

The 1925 Thoroughbred

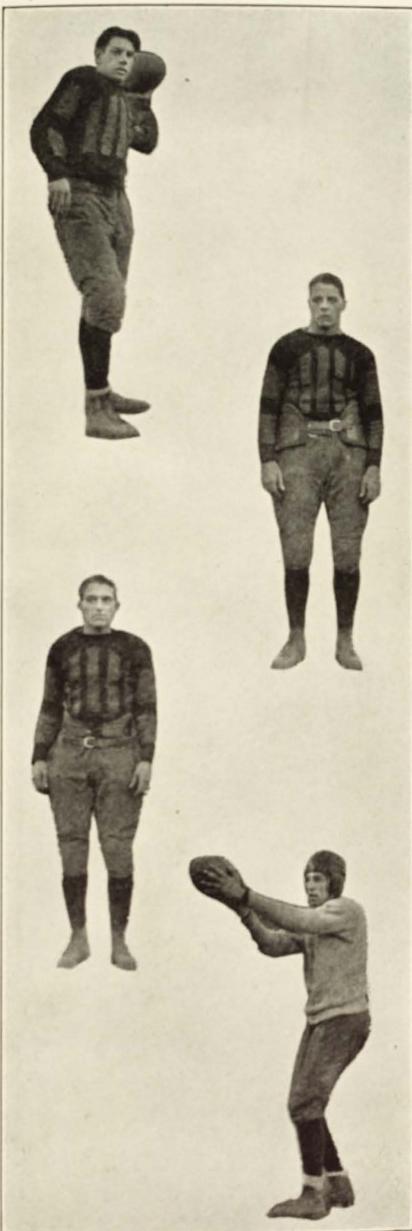

Very few passes were completed by rival teams this year, and the principal reason for this is to be found in Watson Haws. Haws was in the thick of every play, and unless the pass was sky-high, he was there to knock it down.

Frank Shippen's knowledge of chemistry helped him in his work on the squad. He had a formula to solve every play.

Harry Shields was the terror of the first eleven. His line plunging was of the best, but lack of beef prevented him from winning a letter.

Shorty Moran never went anywhere without his satchel and lamp. The only reason they are not included in this picture is—but everybody has seen them. Shorty is an entire hospital in himself.

The 1925 Thoroughbred

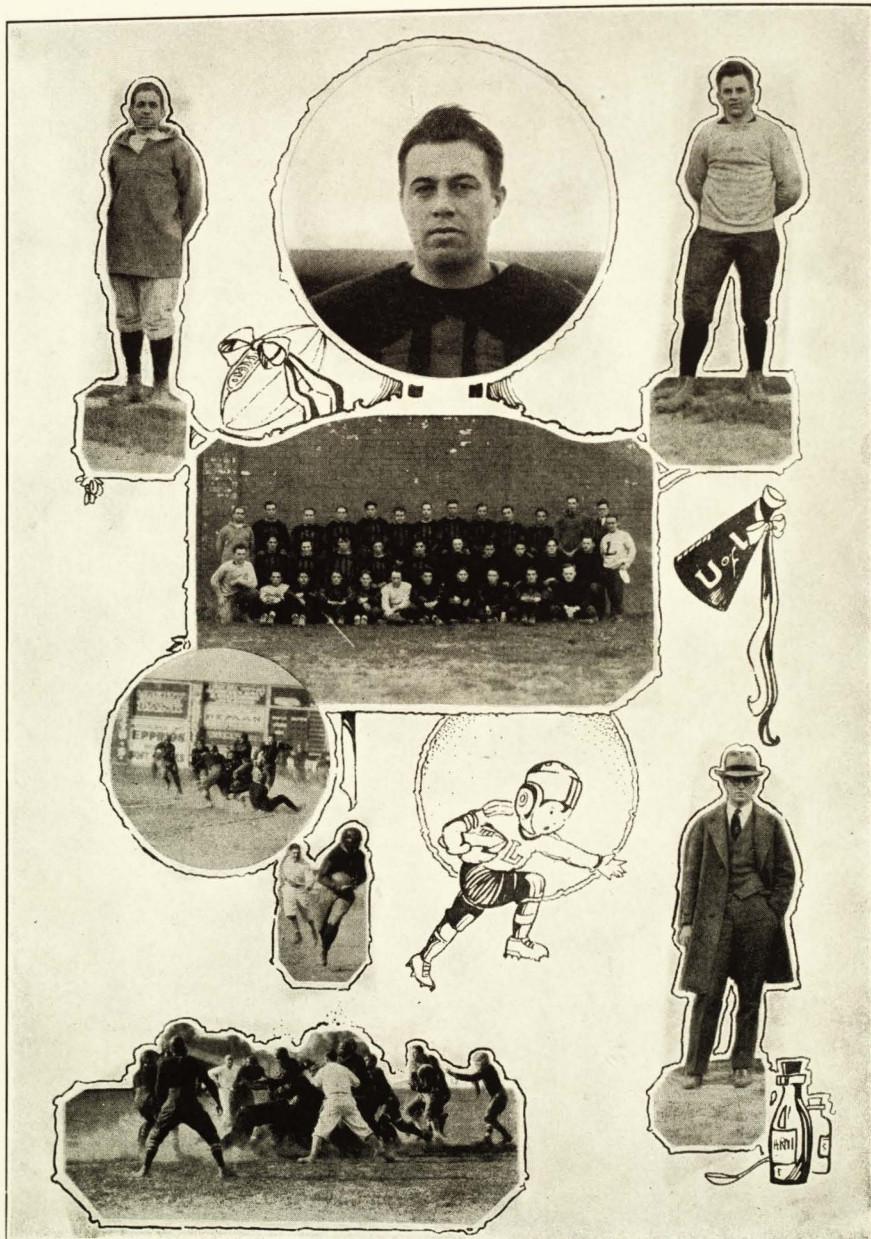

"The best broken-field runner in Kentucky." That is the phrase used many times in description of Fred Koster, fleet halfback, whose thirty and forty yard runs became a habit in the victory over Chattanooga.

The other half of the Ground-gaining Twins — Harvey Mayhall. With Daugherty, this boy shattered the line and circled the end in every contest. He has three seasons left too.

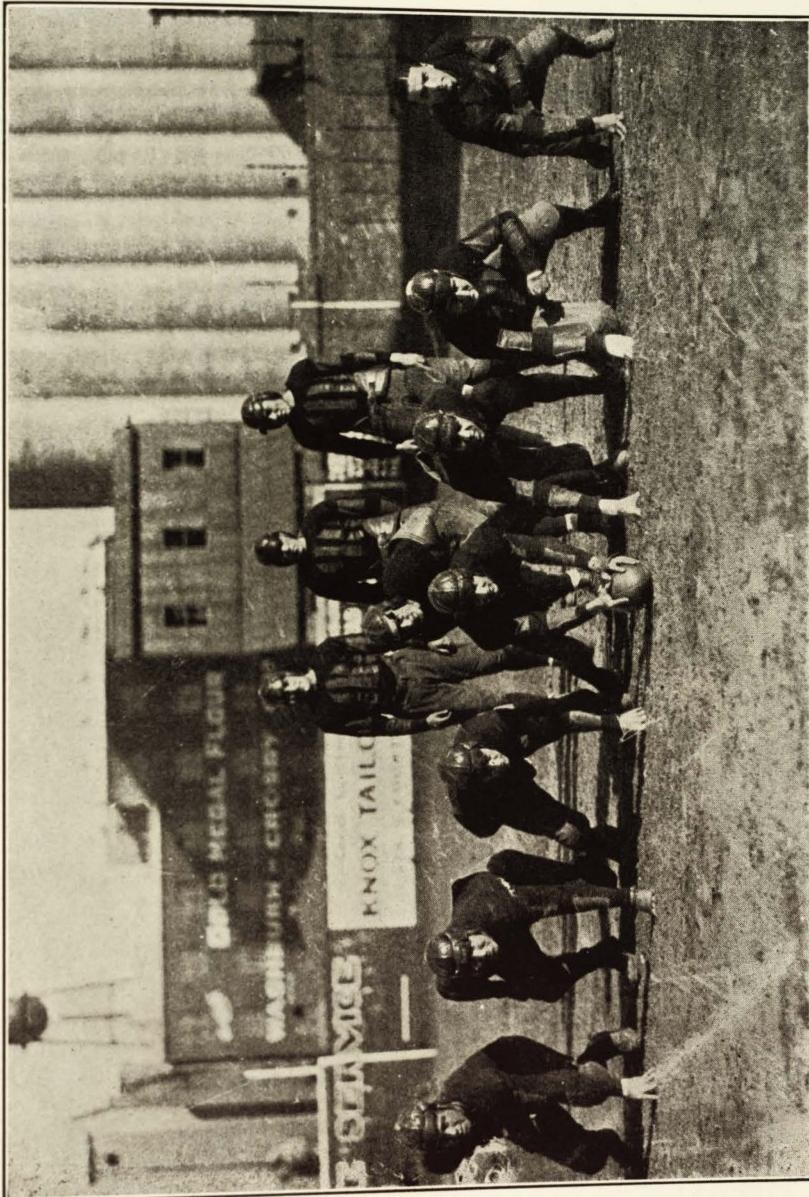

Captain Armand Fischer, elect. Fischer and Koster tried to out-do each other in long runs. Fischer's timely interception of passes will be long remembered, and the entire student body is confident he will lead a championship team next year.

Howard Roth is the authority on Paul Revere. He also is an excellent punter and halfback.

Cross Country Team

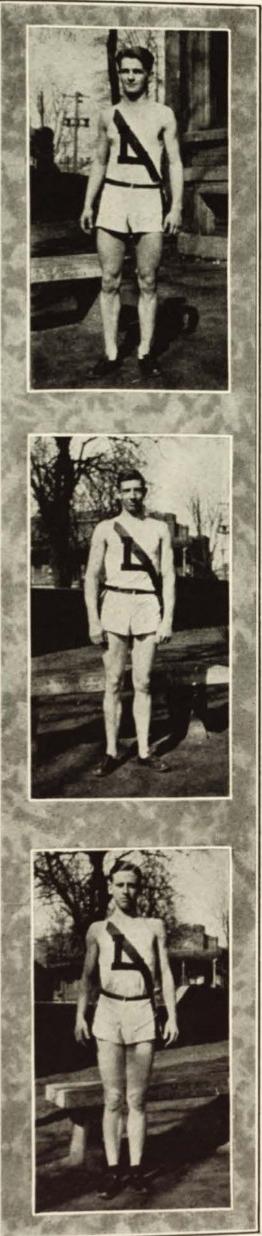

Louis Howland, captain of the cross-country team, has been one of the mainstays of Cardinal distance teams for two years.

Keith Howard, the gentleman from Nebraska, came all the way to Louisville to help the Cardinals win the state championship cross-country honors.

Mose Leonard, captain of the track team, and star sprinter, extended his forte to include distance running, and certainly made good.

The 1925 Thoroughbred

State championships come easy to Eddie Weber. He won the state tennis title, and then came to U. of L. and ran a pretty race to aid in capturing distance honors.

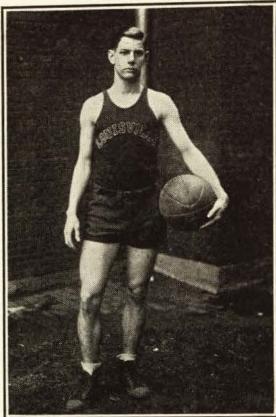

Paavo Nurmi has only one rival, and here he is—Al Kemp. The Squire is a wicked harrier.

The boy with all the chest is Nat Wigginton, another who helped the Cardinals gain their laurels.

Basketball

FRED KOSTER, Captain

It was in basketball that the Cardinals achieved the most fame during the 1924-25 athletic season. The Cardinals flashed, seemingly from nowhere, a speedy aggressive five that annihilated Transylvania, Wesleyan, and conquered Mercer, 1924-25 S. I. A. A. champions, 26 to 22. The team defeated Hanover 31 to 22, and Hanover was one of the leading Indiana quintettes. Ten victories and six defeats were recorded for the Cardinals during the season, and three of these defeats were suffered during a slump occasioned by examinations and illness. However, alibis are not intended here, nor are they needed. The University of Louisville quintette was recognized as being next to Kentucky in the state.

The letter-men were Captain Fred Koster, captain-elect John Gentile, Jim Blackerby, Eddie Weber, Lynn Miller, Alva Snyder, Morris Marks and Reynolds Girdler. All will return next year.

Girls Basketball

Captain Dorothy Bowes led a fighting basketball team during 1924-25. Nine games were played by the Cardinalettes, who were forced to compete under varying conditions, playing boys rules when out in the state and girls rules when in Louisville.

The girls defeated Nazareth 24 to 10, conquered Normal 31 to 13, lost to Wesleyan 20 to 16, defeated Transylvania 21 to 13, were defeated by Bowling Green 26 to 15, and lost to Nazareth 25 to 12. They then walloped Wesleyan 21 to 4 but were beaten by Transylvania 18 to 14. They wound up their season with a 22 to 17 victory over Normal.

Track

The year 1925 saw track established as a sport in the University of Louisville. Although cross-country had been founded three seasons ago, the Cardinals have not been represented on the cinder path since the days of Ewald and McMeekin.

With the University enjoying an influx of material from Male High School, Manual, and St. Xavier this season, athletic go-getters decided that the time was ripe to place a full track team in the field.

Our first effort met with success for at the annual Armory carnival the Cardinals won the Kentucky indoor track and field championship. The University of Louisville scored a total of 27 points. Kentucky was second with 12, and Georgetown was a poor third. Louisville was represented by Captain George, "Mose," Leonard, Al Kemp, E. R. Henderson, Sam Steinfeld, George Resta, Harry Hartkemeier, Sam Hyman, Garland Weidner, Keith Howard, Louis Howland and Fred Koster.

Captain Leonard defeated Uncas Miller, of Kentucky, in the 440-yard dash. E. R. Henderson, who was later elected captain of the Frosh team, defeated Gordon Davis, of Kentucky, in the 80-yard dash, and Sam Steinfeld led Davis to the tape in the 300-yard dash. The Cardinals also won the mile relay race easily.

With great track material at hands and no funds with which to equip or finance this wealth of material a drive for funds, headed by Sam Hyman, was launched and met with success.

The Frosh team enjoyed a successful season and as The Thoroughbred goes to press the 'Varsity is preparing for the Kentucky Intercollegiate Track and Field meet to be held at Maxwell Park under the auspices of the University of Louisville. The team is composed of Capt. Leonard, Al Kemp, Fred Koster, Sam Hyman, Oscar Muecke, George Resta, Joe Green, Clarence Judah, Garland Weidner, Keith Howard, Louis Howland, Harry Hartkemeier, and Louis Borow. Freshmen were not eligible for this meet. With the 1928 freshmen eligible for the 'Varsity next season we expect to win the Southern championship.

Cross Country

The 1924 cross-country team of the University of Louisville won the Kentucky intercollegiate championship and the Kentucky independent championship in the annual Thanksgiving hill and dale chase at Cherokee Park under the auspices of the Young Men's Hebrew Association.

Indiana and Butler, boasting a number of Olympic athletes, led the large field home, but the Cardinals were a good third. The State collegiate title was garnered when the Cardinals finished 47 points ahead of the University of Kentucky harriers.

The Cardinals finished 8-11-12-17-18. Captain Louis Howland, Keith Howard, Nat Wigginton, George Leonard, Al Kemp, and Eddie Weber carried the University of Louisville colors. Robert Hunn was alternate.

The team was under the direction of Sam Hyman.

Keith Howard was elected captain of the 1925 team.

Baseball

The baseball team, under the leadership of Captain Ray is having a fairly successful season. The pitching of Clark Bailey has been the outstanding feature of the season. At the time of going to press the team record stands as follows:

Butler	10	Cardinals.....	7
U. of K.....	8	Cardinals.....	4
Butler (at Bueter).....	8	Cardinals.....	6
Hanover	12	Cardinals.....	14

Doing Your Best

The call to every man to do his best has had no finer expression than this, penned by Josiah Wedgwood in 1787:

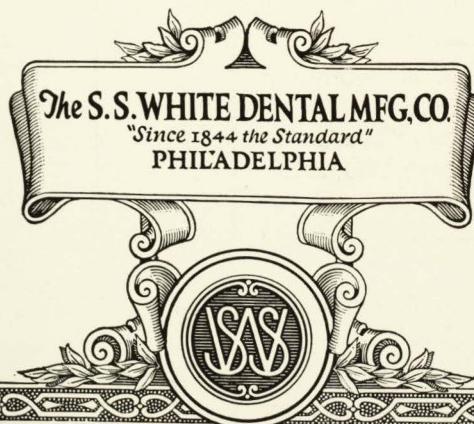

All works of taste must bear a price in proportion to the skill, taste, time, expense and risk attending their invention and manufacture. Those things called dear are, when justly estimated, the cheapest; they are attended with much less profit to the artist than those which everybody calls cheap. Beautiful forms and compositions are not made by chance, nor can they ever, in any material, be made at small expense. A competition for cheapness, and not for excellence of workmanship, is the most frequent and certain cause of the rapid decay and entire destruction of arts and manufactures.

Following the principles laid down by Wedgwood has brought the dental profession from a lowly "trade," deeply infected by charlatanism in 1839, to its present proud position—an acknowledged world beneficence.

In the earlier years its art outstripped its science. Its practitioners were keen for practical results and it had at its elbow a house willing and able to give it instruments and materials that helped the dentists to do their best.

From its beginning in 1844, the House of White has worked to prove that "the best is the cheapest," has refused to enter into "a competition for cheapness." Its proudest boast is that no one ever bought a poorly made article that wore its trade-mark.

Excellence of workmanship is as necessary for the advancement of the dentist. But he cannot do his best without the best tools.
